

HARVEY BOUTERSE

When the mind is blank (now), what would it create? Now in an overflow of images inspiration and knowledge. To create mindless, pure, wild shapes that come pure from the soul. Wild, unfiltered unbound. But most importantly, working from the now, the earth, the clay, the fire, exploding, erupting, using the ancient craft of ceramics. The result is "Nova Rupta", a series of ceramic sculptural vases growing from innocence and pureness into new forms.

