

RAMSEY CONDER

Earthy, organic materials - wood, brass, leather, - utilized in cathartic, unexpected ways, the work of Ramsey Conder draws on inspiration that ranges from the sleek lines of the automobile to the poetic irregularity of the natural world. Functional, yet intrinsically sculptural, his designs reflect a keen eye for shape and form, matched with artistic whimsy. A brass drawer pull takes the form of desert cacti, a wall hook features the fine-lined fingerprints of it's maker, a humble ash daybed is adorned with just a touch of metallic flash.
