

WILLETT

Willett is a Los Angeles-based designer and the founder of his eponymous practice, Willett – a multidisciplinary design company established in 2022, that seeks to uncover new ways in which furniture and built spaces coexist. With a background in architecture, Willett’s early career specialized in the design, curation and execution of elevated experiences for brands such as Nike, Uniqlo and Stella Artois. Drawing on strong ties to adjacent creative fields, Willett approaches design with a fresh point of view that translates into environments and objects that are as innovative as they are suited for everyday living.
